This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1870. Excerpt: . . . JESUS AND THE RESURRECTION. ISAGREEABLE subject, said a friend, on reading the preceding article on Sinful Flesh. Disagreeable truths lie on the threshold of the house wherein are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. The unsearchable riches of Christ can neither be discovered nor attained until we have passed the Rubicon which divides the life of self from life in God. But not only does it appear that the filthiness of the flesh is a disagreeable subject; the doctrine of the resurrection, as taught in the Scriptures, also finds little favour with men. Not only were the Sadducees (who say there is no resurrection, neither angel nor spirit) grieved that the apostles taught through Jesus the resurrection from the dead; but as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, the rulers of the people and elders of Israel, straitly threatened and commanded them not to speak at all, nor teach in the name of Jesus. And when Paul, having turned from Israel to the Gentiles, preached to the Athenians, some said, What will this babbler say other some, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods, because he preached unto them Jesus and the resurrection. And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead some mocked, and others said, We will hear thee again of this matter. How shall we account for this repugnance of mans heart to hear of resurrection The cold caterpillar that buries...
